Military Organization Started By Former High School Cadets

Constitution Adopted and Plans Discussed for Recruiting.
War Department Approached on Subject of Furnishing Equipment and Instructors.

Former cadets of Washington high schools yesterday took preliminary action leading to their final organization into a military body by the adoption of a constitution and the creation of offices. More than a score of active spirits in the movement gathered in the Perpetual Building Association Hall. Officers probably will be elected next Sunday. The purpose of the organization, as outlined in the preamble to the constitution, is "for the study of methods of defense against war by an enemy of the United States," with incidental objects of "developing a better and stronger citizenship and the promotion of patriotism and love for our country and flag." Ex-High School Cadets was chosen as a name. Such a military organization has been the aim of many graduates of District high schools since questions of national preparedness have arisen, but only within the last few weeks has the idea taken the concrete form as expressed at yesterday's meeting. The idea is commanding considerable interest, not only among former student-cadets of the schools here, but among resident cadets of private and public schools of other cities.

SOCIALIST SPEAKER BITTER.

C. P. Taylor Predicts Defeat of Defense Plans.

"No matter what action Wilson and Congress will take on preparedness, they are going to find such an opposition against it when it comes up before the people that they are going to wish they had never undertaken it." This was the assertion of Clarence P. Taylor, of Baltimore, a traveling organizer and lecturer for the Socialist party, before the Sunday evening meeting in the Socialist headquarters, 811 E street northwest. Taylor called the flag the "Star Shattered Spanner," and parodied the words of the national anthem, "Our country, 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty." He said before his emigration to this country he had heard the United States alighted to as the land where every man was his own sovereign, and king. "Yes, they are ten-dollar-a-week kings, and eight-dollar-a-week sovereigns," he said.

CHILE IS LAND OF WONDERS.

Travelogue Lecturer Describes the Wealth and Beauty of Republic.

In the third travelogue of the E. M. Newman series on "South America," at the Belasco Theater last evening, Chile occupied most of the attention of the speaker.

The journey began at Montevideo, the capital city of Uruguay, which the scenes depicted as not unlike any of our metropolitan cities. Glimpses of this smallest republic of the South American continent left the impression of a progressive and great country.

Chile is a country of great opportunity for the North American. Newman declared its farm lands are the most fertile, the conditions for cattle raising are ideal, and the mineral wealth of the country is limitless.

The speaker described northern Chile as nature's laboratory, with its fields of nitrate of soda, borax and other minerals, and as the storehouse of Chilean wealth with its mines of copper, silver and gold. He stated the United States Steel Company has recently purchased in Chile two mountains of solid iron, to be dug away and smelted in the United States, and that the Guaymas interests have established great smelting plants in northern Chile, and other American enterprises are springing up as a result of the opening of the Panama Canal.

Inspection of Valparaiso, and of the quaint town of Antofagasta, in the heart of the nitrate district, closed the lecture.

Pyrene
Should Be in Every Home and Garage

PYRENE is a fire extinguisher and the liquid within is called Pyrene liquid. The extinguisher is in the nature of a gun that works by hand in pump fashion. A boy of ten years can operate it easily. Weighs only six pounds and is fourteen inches long. Pyrene puts out fire in a jiffy. Keeps little fires from becoming big fires, smothers, squelches fire. When squirted on fire it forms a heavy gas vapor which settles down quickly on the fire like an impenetrable blanket and simply smothers the fire. It does no damage. Can be squirted on a man's white collar and will not even take the starch out of it, much less leave a mark. Leaves whatever it touches dry as dust in a few moments. Won't freeze at 50 degrees below zero. Never deteriorates. It is the ONLY EXTINGUISHER THAT WILL PUT OUT GASOLINE OR OIL FIRES. It is the only kind that is safe for electrical fires.

Auto Fire Insurance Costs Less When You Have Pyrene.

Members of Bible Class Peel Off Coats and Lay New Floor
Rapidly Transforming Basement of Calvary M. E. Church Into New Gymnasium and Club Rooms—None Too Proud to Lend Hand in Manual Labor.

With coats off, sleeves rolled up, and perspiration streaming, Rev. John T. Ensor, teacher, Jesse L. Leverton, former president and reorganizer, and a score of members have been at work every day fitting up a new gymnasium for the men's Bible class in the basement of the Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, Sixteenth street and Columbia road. This strenuous organization has undertaken to lay a new maple floor and make useless church basement into a place for healthful enjoyment and recreation for its members. Carpenters have been dispensed with, and every member, of what is termed the "livest church club in town," does his share as carpenter and joiner in laying matched flooring. More than one hundred and fifty men, between the ages of 20 and 85 years, belong to the club, and the history of the organization is without a resignation. Included among its members are doctors, lawyers, merchants, clergymen, government employees, and business men. The class is remarkable in that it has no assessments of any kind, an innovation introduced by Jesse L. Leverton, who has been a leader in the organization since its inception. When the work in the basement is completed, the club will have at its disposal a fine gymnasium and clubroom. Bowling alley, basketball and handball courts will be installed. Officers of the club are: President, N. L. Sanbury; vice president, J. L. Nuber; secretary, Howard Flemming; treasurer, J. H. Mackey. Committee chairman, Membership, Kenneth Vipond; social, Benjamin Goldsworthy; music, Herman Carli.
